

This site is the next but one property north of the listed Old Rectory and wholly in the Bursledon Conservation Area. The Vicarage looks like a 1960's building of no architectural importance and rather out of place close to The Old Rectory.

The existing shed, which looks life-expired, is partially masked by the trees and undergrowth and is furthest from the heritage asset. A new shed covering the existing footprint and extending further south onto the drive will not present a compromise to either the Vicarage or The Old Rectory at that distance. Additionally a new shed will look better than the existing rotten one and if finished in a dark stain or paint will not be so intrusive as a brighter finish would be. On that basis, no objection.
