Biodiversity net gain

Paragraph 13 of Schedule 7A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 sets out that every planning permission granted for the development of land in England shall be deemed to have been granted subject to the 'biodiversity gain condition' requiring development to achieve a net gain of 10% of biodiversity value.

This is subject to exemptions, an exemption applies in relation to planning permission for a development which is the subject of a householder application, within the meaning of article 2(1) of the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order (2015)*.

Applicants for planning permission are required to make a statement as to whether they believe the biodiversity gain condition will apply if permission is granted, please confirm:

☒ It is my belief that if permission is granted for the development to which this application relates the biodiversity gain condition would not apply

*A 'householder application' means an application for planning permission for development for an existing dwellinghouse, or development within the curtilage of such a dwellinghouse for any purpose incidental to the enjoyment of the dwellinghouse which is not an application for change of use or an application to change the number of dwellings in a building.

Details of the pre-application advice received

The proposed erection of an outbuilding for an office and first floor terrace as submitted would likely be refused due to its harmful impact on the character and appearance of the area, as well as harmful overlooking and loss of privacy to neighbouring dwellings. Even if privacy screen balustrading was to be proposed, this would then create harmful overbearing impacts on the surrounding neighbouring dwellings. For these reasons, any proposal for a first-floor terrace in this tight knit residential area with closely spaced gardens would likely be refused. Furthermore, with the dwelling still retaining sufficient garden space even with a large outbuilding created, there is no justification or need for the terrace that would in any way justify its harm. A scheme with a ground floor outbuilding and no first-floor terrace or external staircase would be more acceptable and would be a more suitable scheme for this dwelling within this area. If a planning application is to be submitted with the ground floor of the outbuilding only, consideration of the windows to the east elevation should be given to ensure there is no harmful overlooking onto no.170 Falkland Road. If a planning application is to be submitted, further information would be necessary to appropriately assess the impacts of the amended boundary treatment and proposed new door onto the public highway as well as any alterations to land levels. Overall, while the principle of an outbuilding to the rear garden is acceptable, the proposed first floor terrace and staircase would weigh significantly against the proposal.

Authority Employee/Member

With respect to the Authority, is the applicant and/or agent one of the following:

- (a) a member of staff
- (b) an elected member
- (c) related to a member of staff
- (d) related to an elected member

It is an important principle of decision-making that the process is open and transparent.

For the purposes of this question, "related to" means related, by birth or otherwise, closely enough that a fair-minded and informed observer, having considered the facts, would conclude that there was bias on the part of the decision-maker in the Local Planning Authority.
