Supplementary information request regarding trees

In the initial stages of planning the workshop replacement it was identified that one tree in the existing forecourt of the workshop would need to be removed and an ash tree on the perimeter would need to be protected. During the assessment of the ash tree clear indicators of Ash dieback were identified by an external contractor so both trees were removed.

This activity was carried out as part of other planned tree management which involved the planting of some 1,500 new trees across the estate during February and March, including many on the recreation ground. Planting of particular note was undertaken to extend the tree cover around the central path of the recreation ground. Additional planting will take place in proximity to the new workshop once work has completed.
